Details:
On 06/06/2024 at approx 2236Hrs, APPD were dispatched to Warwick Ave, Allen Park, MI 48101 for a Motor Vehicle Theft report. Dispatch advised the stolen vehicle was a silver 2013 Ford Taurus. Upon arrival, they made contact with the caller who stated that she left the driveway gate, on the East side of her residence, open when she left her residence at approx 1100Hrs.

She stated when she left the residence the 2013 Ford Taurus was still in the driveway. She then stated that she arrived home at approx 2300Hrs and the vehicle was no longer in the driveway. She stated that her husband, purchased the vehicle from their son in law approx 5 months ago. She stated they ever went to SOS to transfer the Title into his name resulting in it still being the registered owner. She also stated the vehicle had no insurance. She stated the driver side rear had a dent near the wheel well and that all the windows are tinted other than the front windshield. Both people were called and informed on the Motor Vehicle Theft. She stated she had the only set of keys to the vehicle and that he was currently in Ohio for work. Vehicle was taken without keys. Dispatch entered the 2013 Ford Taurus in SOS/LEIN as Stolen. The Officer entered Vehicle into FLOCK (LPR) with no findings. The Officer observed no evidence of forced entry

Class of 2024: One Local Grad Prepares to "Go Blue" as a First Generation College Student

From: Emilie Appleyard

It's graduation season and as the Class of 2024 prepares to don their cap and gown, this represents a special moment for the more than 120 local students who will graduate from the Detroit Regional Dollars for Scholars (DRDFS) Next Level Scholars program.

The Next Level Scholars program provides 1:1 coaching, leadership workshops, SAT prep, college visits and more to students at 16 partner schools across Macomb, Monroe, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne counties. The program is free and guarantees a $4,000 scholarship to every student who completes it. The majority of students in the Next Level Scholars program will be the first in their family to attend college.

Murium Grewal is among those seniors - with an exciting future ahead reflecting her hard work academically and the support she received through DRDFS.

Murium Grewal is a first-generation college student whose parents immigrated from Pakistan. She is graduating in June from Melvindale High School, where she ranks 3rd in her class. Outside of the classroom, she participated in extracurriculars and was the Homecoming Queen. Murium will be attending the University of Michigan in the fall to study business and project management.

Murium's story is an inspiration to all students, proving that her years of hard work paid off as she is now headed to one of the country's top rated public universities.

Among the many DRDFS staff who had an impact on this year's graduating class is Jill Marecki, the Next Level Scholars Program Director. Jill is available for an interview to talk about the Next Level Scholars Program's impact on local students and how the program supports students on their path to continuing education after high school.

ON THE SIDELINE: WALNUT TREE, MOUNTAIN DEW, LOVE BOAT AND MY "MAN CARD"

By Don Richter
drichter101@comcast.net

Well, it finally happened. I finally did it. No, I didn't finally give up drinking pop. I'm not crazy. I need my Mountain Dew. What are you thinking?

No, I didn't give up watching reruns of the "Love Boat." I know, here's my "man card." Take it, just take it.

No, I didn't stop yelling at people while driving. "Stay in your lane." "Your car has a blinker, use it." "Slow down." Here, I need my "man card" back, thank you.

No, what happened and what I finally did was have my HUGE walnut tree cut down, along with removing the stump.

I'm elated. I'm ecstatic. I'm burning up. I knew my giant walnut tree, which dominated my front yard, shaded and cooled my house in the warm spring and summer months, but this is ridiculous. It's not even summer yet (I'm too lazy to look at my calendar), but already my house is a sauna.

I can't imagine what it's going to be like in July and August. And, no, I don't have air conditioning. What do you think I am, made of money? Jeesh.

No, it's a fan in every room type of life for me now. I never realized how much that old walnut tree of mine cooled my house. I'm a little sad now that my "air conditioning" is gone.

But on the bright side, the tree is no longer hovering menacingly over my house and my neighbor's. It was one strong thunderstorm and high wind from toppling

Plus, after almost 20 years, I no longer have to pick up thousands of baseball-sized walnuts that dropped from the tree and onto my lawn, my neighbor's lawn, the sidewalk and the street. That yearly chore was truly the bane of my existence.

I'd also like to publicly apologize to all the squirrels and chipmunks that made a living off of all the walnuts each year and used the tree as a gathering place and elevated highway. It had to be done, fellas — I'm sorry dudes.

Sadly, I still have one more HUGE walnut tree left in my front yard. But this one is closer to the street, farther from my house and I'm told on city property. So, I guess it's the city's problem? Though I'm still going to have to pick up bags full of walnuts this fall, it might be a couple hundred instead of thousands. Traditionally, the walnut tree that remains normally, for some reason, doesn't drop as many walnuts as the tree I had cut down. I don't know the reason, but I do know that I'm okay with that fact.

I recently put down some grass seed to fill in the dirt space that now exists where the stump and tree used to be. I jumped for joy when after about a week I noticed little blades of green grass popping up through the soil.

So, I finally did it. It finally happened. After years of waiting, planning and saving money, I finally got it done.

I had my HUGE walnut tree cut down.

I'm patting myself on the head. I deserve it.

I'm also sweltering in my house, while guzzling a 2-liter of Mountain Dew and watching reruns of the "Love Boat."

Yes, I know, I'm giving my "man card" back.

Can I borrow a fan...?
